

Pujan Tandukar

April 12, 2018

Project 2 - Milestone 1

I am making an astrology app. Recently, I have been really enjoying learning about astronomy and astrology. I want to make this app so I can learn more about these astrology signs as well as help other people learn. This app will start off with a screen filled with all the different signs. It will display the name, the artwork and the date. After clicking in one of the signs, a new view will load with that specific sign. The detailed layout will display the different traits, strength, weakness, quality, compatibility and horoscope. The app will also have an information view that has different details about the elements, rulers and quality. Astrology is really fascinating and I want to make a simple app that has useful information for beginners who want to learn more about this field. My app audience will be people who are interested in learning about astrology and who are beginners and have no previous knowledge about this.

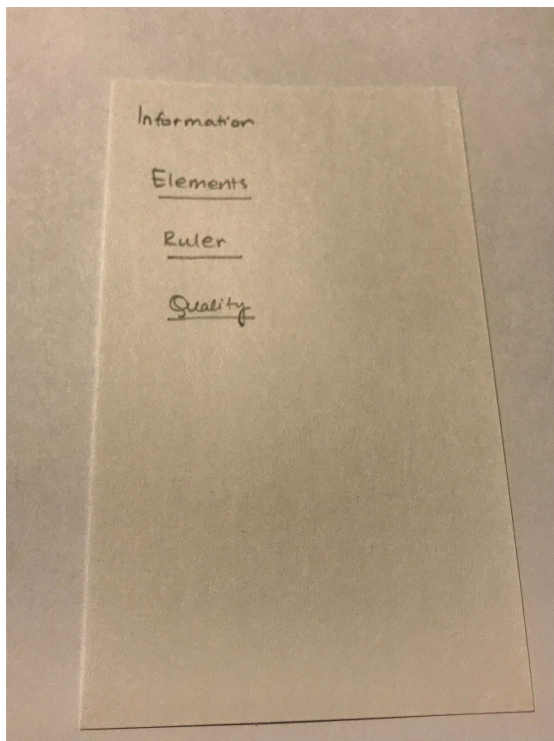

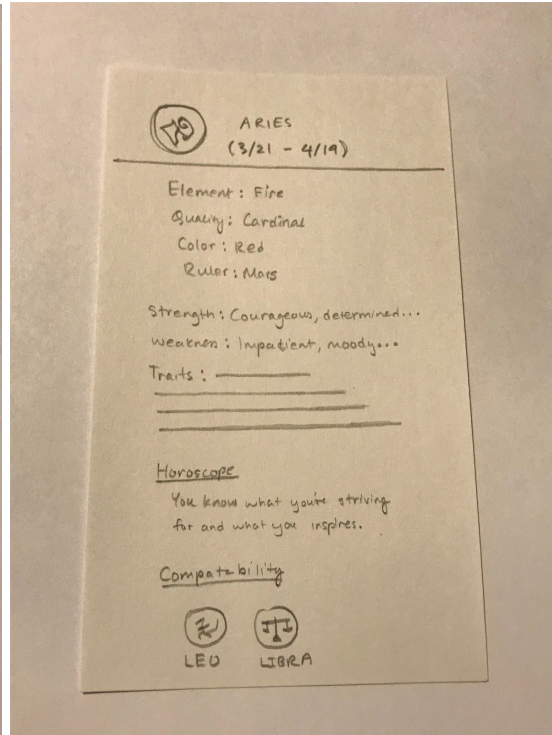

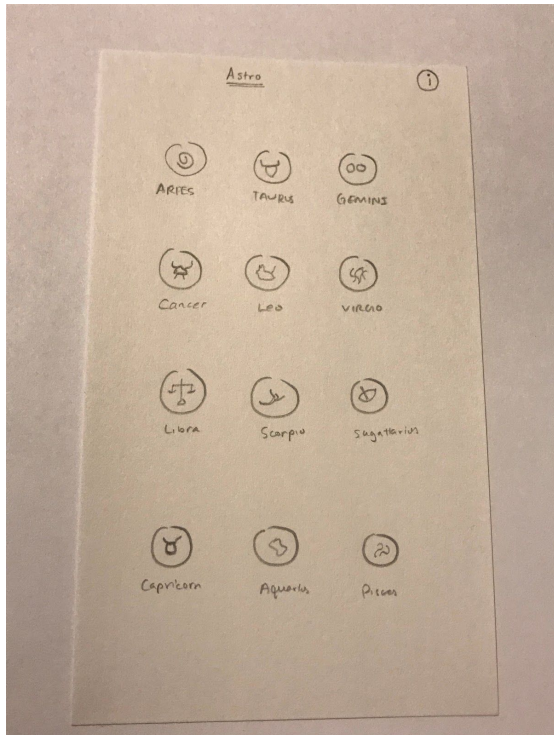

One of the app that I found is called Daily Horoscope. This app is very clean and it has a lot of information regarding the astrology signs. This app is revolved around horoscopes and it also has information about couple of characteristics and such. This app also has ads. My app will be a simplified version that doesn't make an user feel overwhelmed with a lot of information.

For the content of the app, I will be making couple of my own art for the horoscopes but I might also get some cool artwork from online. The information, most likely the static ones, will be pulled in from a Json file. The static data includes, the dates, quality, element and such. I might use another view that loads a website to display the horoscope.

*Stretch - I might try to find an api that can give me data for the daily horoscope.

I might also try to add people, which will take input of their name and their birthday which will classify them and give them a certain horoscope and it can be displayed on each sign. So, for example, if I add myself as Aries, and when I press on aries on my home screen, it will show "Pujan" on the bottom. I can use this to also display compatibility and such for each horoscope and make the app little bit more personal.

Digital Prototype:

Quality

Cardinal

Fixed

Mutable

Ruler

Moon

Mercury

Mars

Jupiter

Uranus

Pluto

Sun

Saturn

Add a person:

☐

Name: _____

Birthday: _____

ELEMENTS

Fire

Water

Earth

Air